

Tinni Murder Hearing Deferred Again

Sunday, 19 September 2010

The Dhaka court, dealing with the sensational murder of model Tinni of 2002, has deferred hearing of the case for the second time.

Additional judge Mizanur Rahman of Dhaka District and Sessions Judge's court fixed a fresh date for the hearing on Oct 19 in response to a petition by additional public prosecutor Mohmamd Ruhul Amin.

The Dhaka court, dealing with the sensational murder of model Tinni of 2002, has deferred hearing of the case for the second time.

Additional judge Mizanur Rahman of Dhaka District and Sessions Judge's court fixed a fresh date for the hearing on Oct 19 in response to a petition by additional public prosecutor Mohmamd Ruhul Amin.

The defence lawyer petitioned for more time as none of the five witnesses on the government side were present at the court.

Mohammad Azizur Rahman, record keeper of the court, told bdnews24.com that Shah Ilias Ratan, appointed by the government to fight for defendant Golam Faruk Ovi, was present at the court.

The case was first deferred on Aug 16.

The same court on July 14 set Aug 15 for cross examination of witnesses after showing the accused as 'absconding'.

A former MP of Anwar Hossain Manju's faction of Jatiya Party Ovi went into hiding soon after Tinni's murder came to light. Ovi is said to be living in Canada.

Earlier on Mar 14, the then Dhaka's district and sessions judge Krishna Devnath decided to proceed with the case against the former Jatiya Party MP and student leader and transferred the case to an additional district judge for charge framing and trial.

The case caused a sensation when the body of model Syeda Tania Mahbub, popularly known as Tinni, was found under the Bangladesh-China Friendship Bridge over the Buriganga on Nov 10, 2002.

The case accuses Ovi of murdering Tinni to keep his illicit relationship with her under wraps.

The charge sheet also says that the accused fled the country following receipt of bail in an arms case that sentenced him to 17 years in jail and that he is currently in Canada.

On Feb 26, 2007, a 'red alert' was sent out for his arrest and attempts were made to bring him back through the Interpol.

The murder case was filed against 'unidentified' perpetrators by Keraniganj police sub-inspector Mohammed Shafiuddin on Nov 11, 2002.

Later arrest warrants were issued against Tinni's husband Shafakat Hossain Pial and five of his friends. But police dropped the case against them due to lack of any solid evidence. However, Ovi's involvement in her murder emerged following their interrogation.

After about six years, police filed case against Ovi on Nov 8, 2008, showing him as a fugitive.

The charge sheet stated that Ovi developed an illicit relationship with Tinni but refused to marry her when she pressed.

He reportedly killed her when Tinni became persistent in her demand to give her social recognition through marriage.
